It's your future. Get where you want to go with the GRE[®] General Test.

Whether you are planning to go to graduate school or business school — or just exploring the possibilities — taking the GRE[®] General Test keeps your options open.

It's a smart move to take the GRE General Test

As the world's most widely accepted admissions test for graduate and business school, the GRE General Test gives you more options for your future. You can use GRE scores to apply to master's, MBA, specialized master's in business and Ph.D. programs worldwide.

With the flexibility to apply more of your own test-taking strategies and the option to send only your best scores to the graduate or business school programs you choose, you can do your best on test day.

With the GRE General Test, you decide which scores to send to schools. If you feel you didn't do your best on test day, that's okay. You can retake the test and then send ONLY the scores you want schools to see. It's all part of the ScoreSelect[®] option, only available with GRE tests.

Plus, the GRE General Test is the only admissions test for graduate or business school that lets you skip questions within a section, go back and change answers and have control to tackle the questions you want to answer first. That's great news because GRE research shows that most GRE test takers saw score gains on those few instances when they decided it was best to change their answer.

It all makes for a test-taker friendly experience that better fits your personal testing strategies and helps you do your best. Then, with your best scores in hand, you can apply to more schools around the world than with any other graduate-level admissions test. That's why taking the GRE General Test is a smart move.

Only the GRE General Test:

- Gives you the ScoreSelect option.
- Features a test-taker friendly design.
- Is accepted at thousands of graduate and business schools worldwide.
- Costs less than other graduate admissions tests that measure the same skills.
- Is administered at more than 1,000 test centers worldwide.

Use the test-taker friendly features to do your best.

The GRE General Test is the only admissions test for graduate or business school that lets you go through each section of the test in the way that is most comfortable for you. You can preview questions, skip and go back to more challenging questions — even change your answers if you decide later that your first choice was incorrect — all within a section. So, this test-taker friendly design allows you to decide how to approach each question and each section in a way that fits your personal test-taking strategies.

Only the GRE General Test lets you:

- Preview and review questions within a section.
- Tag questions with the “mark” and “review” feature within a section, so you can skip and return to them later.
- Go back and change answers within a section.
- Use an on-screen calculator for the Quantitative Reasoning section.*

*For those taking the paper-delivered GRE General Test, calculators will be provided.

Get where you want to go with the most widely accepted test for graduate and business schools.

No matter what advanced degree you are considering, you will have more opportunities when you take the GRE General Test because it is accepted by both graduate and business schools worldwide.

- Thousands of schools all over the world accept GRE scores, including those in the U.S., the U.K., Canada, China, India, France, Germany and many other countries.
- Scores are used in admissions decisions for all types of master’s, MBA, specialized master’s in business, and doctoral programs as well as for awarding fellowships.
- Business schools around the world, including Harvard, IE, INSEAD, MIT Sloan, Stanford and Singapore Management University accept GRE scores for their MBA programs.

Put your best scores forward with the ScoreSelect® option.

Test day is a big day. But what if, after seeing your scores at the test center, you feel you did not do your best? It’s okay — you do not have to send your scores. With the new ScoreSelect option, you can retake the test and send only the scores you want your schools to see. Knowing you have that option can help you approach test day with even more confidence — and help you focus on doing your best. And it’s only available with GRE tests.

Here’s how it works:

Decide on Test Day:

When viewing your scores at the test center, you can choose not to send your scores at this time OR you can select either option below for each of your four FREE score reports:

- Most Recent option: Send your scores from your current test date.
- All option: Send your scores from all test dates in the last five years.

Decide After Test Day:

At any time, you can go online and send additional score reports for a fee and select from these options for each report you’d like to send:

- Most Recent option: Send your scores from your most recent test date.
- All option: Send your scores from all test dates in the last five years.
- Any option: Send your scores from one or as many test dates as you like from the last five years.

No matter which option you choose, you will select by specific test dates, so your scores are all from the same testing session. And the schools you designate will only see the scores you selected to send them. There will be no special indication if you have taken additional GRE tests. To learn more, go to ets.org/gre/scoreselect.

Plus, scores are good for five years, so you can take the test now while you’re still deciding what to do.

Let's take a closer look.

Graduate and business schools want to be sure that you have the skills you need to succeed in their demanding programs. The GRE® General Test measures your verbal reasoning, quantitative reasoning, critical thinking and analytical writing skills — skills that are not related to a specific field of study, but are important for all.

Testing around the world.

In most regions of the world, the computer-delivered test is available on a continuous basis throughout the year. In Mainland China, Hong Kong, Taiwan and Korea, the computer-delivered test is available one to three times per month.

In areas of the world where the computer-delivered test is not available, the test is administered in a paper-delivered format up to three times a year in October, November and February.
