

TOEIC® Listening and Reading Test Score Reports and Certificates

All TOEIC® Listening and Reading test examinees are issued score reports. Additionally, some candidates elect to have an official TOEIC Certificate of Achievement. This document is an attractive and secure record of the candidate's performance, and is suitable for display and presentation.

Although the same security measures are applied worldwide to ensure that the test is administered in a secure environment, localized versions of the certificate and score report have been developed in some cases. The local TOEIC program representative is responsible for issuing all certificates and score reports.
