Instructions for the Verbal Reasoning and Quantitative Reasoning Sections

For your convenience, these instructions are included both in the test book for Sections 2 and 3, and in the test book for Sections 4 and 5. The instructions are the same in both locations.

As a reminder, standard timing for each section of the test is shown in the following table:

Important Notes

In the actual test, your scores for these sections will be determined by the number of questions you answer correctly. Nothing is subtracted from a score if you answer a question incorrectly. Therefore, to maximize your scores it is better for you to guess at an answer than not to respond at all. Work as rapidly as you can without losing accuracy. Do not spend too much time on questions that are too difficult for you. Go on to the other questions and come back to the difficult ones later.

Some or all of the passages in this test have been adapted from published material to provide the examinee with significant problems for analysis and evaluation. To make the passages suitable for testing purposes, the style, content, or point of view of the original may have been altered. The ideas contained in the passages do not necessarily represent the opinions of the Graduate Record Examinations Board or Educational Testing Service.
You may use a calculator in the Quantitative Reasoning sections only. You will be provided with a basic calculator and cannot use any other calculator, except as an approved accommodation.

Marking Your Answers

In the actual test, all answers must be marked in the test book. The following instructions describe how answers must be filled in.

Your answers will be hand-scored, so make sure your marks are clear and unambiguous. Examples of acceptable and unacceptable marks will be given with the sample questions.
Question Formats

This practice test may include questions that would not be used in an actual test administered in an alternate format because they have been determined to be less suitable for presentation in such formats.

The questions in these sections have several different formats. A brief description of these formats and instructions for entering your answer choices are given as follows.
Multiple-Choice Questions—Select One Answer Choice

These standard multiple-choice questions require you to select just one answer choice from a list of options. You will receive credit only if you mark the single correct answer choice and no other.

Example:

What city is the capital of France?

A  Rome
B  [Wrong] Paris
C  London
D  Cairo

Unacceptable Marks

A Rome   A Rome   A Rome
B Paris   B Paris   B Paris
C London  C London  C London
D Cairo   D Cairo   D Cairo

If you change an answer, be sure that all previous marks are erased completely. Stray marks and incomplete erasures may be read as intended answers. Blank areas of the test book may be used for working out answers, but do not work out answers near the answer-entry areas. Scratch paper will not be provided, except as an approved accommodation.
Multiple-Choice Questions—Select One or More Answer Choices

Some of these questions specify how many answer choices you must select; others require you to select all that apply. In either case, to receive credit all of the correct answer choices must be marked. These questions are distinguished by the use of a square box to be marked to select an answer choice.

Example:

Select all that apply.

Which of the following countries are in Africa?

- Chad
- China
- France
- Kenya

Unauthorized copying or reuse of any part of this page is illegal.
Acceptable Marks

- Chad

Column Format Questions

This question type presents the answer choices in columns. You must pick one answer choice from each column. You will receive credit only if you mark the correct answer choice in each column.

Example:

Complete the following sentence.
(i) _______ is the capital of (ii) _______.

Numeric Entry Questions

These questions require a number to be entered by circling entries in a grid. If you are not entering in your own answers, your scribe should be familiar with these instructions.

1. Your answer may be an integer, a decimal, or a fraction, and it may be negative.

2. Equivalent forms of the correct answer, such as 2.5 and 2.50, are all correct. Fractions do not need to be reduced to lowest terms, though you may need to reduce your fraction to fit in the grid.

3. Enter the exact answer unless the question asks you to round your answer.

4. If a question asks for a fraction, the grid will have a built-in division slash (/). Otherwise, the grid will have a decimal point.
5. Start your answer in any column, space permitting. Circle no more than one entry in any column of the grid. Columns not needed should be left blank.

6. Write your answer in the boxes at the top of the grid and circle the corresponding entries.

You will receive credit only if your grid entries are clearly marked, regardless of the number written in the boxes at the top.
Examples of acceptable ways to use the grid:

Integer answer: 502 (either position shown on page 18 or page 19 is correct)
Decimal Answer: –4.13
Section 2 follows. Tell the supervisor when you have finished reading these directions and are ready to begin Section 2. Test timing will resume when you turn the page and begin Section 2.

Question 6 is based on the following passage.

Extensive housing construction is underway in Pataska Forest, the habitat of a large population of deer. Because deer feed at the edges of forests, these deer will be attracted to the spaces alongside the new roads being cut through Pataska Forest to serve the new residential areas. Consequently, once the housing is occupied, the annual number of the forest’s deer hit by cars will be much higher than before construction started.
6. Select and indicate the best answer from among the five answer choices.

Which of the following is an assumption on which the argument depends?

A The number of deer hit by commercial vehicles will not increase significantly when the housing is occupied.

B Deer will be as attracted to the forest edge around new houses as to the forest edge alongside roads.

C In years past, the annual number of deer that have been hit by cars on existing roads through Pataska Forest has been very low.

D The development will leave sufficient forest to sustain a significant population of deer.

E No deer hunting will be allowed in Pataska Forest when the housing is occupied.

Questions 10 and 11 are based on the following passage:

While chocolate was highly esteemed in Mesoamerica, where it originated, its adoption in Europe was initially slow. There is a common belief that Europeans needed to “transform” chocolate to make it appetizing. However, while Spaniards did put sugar, which was unknown to indigenous Americans, into chocolate beverages, this additive was not completely innovative. Mesoamericans were already sweetening chocolate with honey, and the step from honey to sugar—increasingly more available than honey because of expanding sugar plantations in the Americas—is a small one. Likewise, although Spaniards adjusted Mesoamerican recipes by using European spices, the spices chosen suggest an attempt to replicate harder-to-find native flowers. There is no indication the Spaniards deliberately tried to change the original flavor of chocolate.
10. Select and indicate the best answer from among the five answer choices.

The author of the passage refers to the use of honey primarily to

A identify the origins of an additive previously untried by Europeans
B present an example of a product that was unknown to Europeans
C correct the misapprehension that Mesoamericans used a sweetener that was not available in Europe
D provide an example of an ingredient that was in the process of being displaced by a substitute
E explain why the Spanish use of sugar in chocolate was not a sign of a need to transform chocolate
11. Select and indicate the best answer from among the five answer choices.

Which sentence presents a misconception that the passage challenges?

A The second (“There is . . . . appetizing”).
B The third (“However . . . . innovative”).
C The fourth (“Mesoamericans . . . . one”).
D The fifth (“Likewise . . . . flowers”).
E The sixth (“There is . . . . chocolate”).
Biologists generally agree that birds and dinosaurs are somehow related to one another. The agreement ends there. Hypotheses regarding dinosaurian and avian evolution are unusually diverse—and often at odds with one another. Confusion consequently reigns over a broad spectrum of unanswered questions dealing with avian origins and the biology of dinosaurs and early birds. This confusion has been exacerbated by a paucity of serious attempts to synthesize and evaluate available data on the details of avian and dinosaurian evolution. Too often, the job of summarizing current knowledge of these subjects has fallen to well-meaning but naïve lay authors or reporters. Consequently, both the public and the scientific community have often been misled by widespread dissemination of sensational but weakly founded hypotheses.
12. For the following question, consider each of the choices separately and select all that apply.

The sentence “Consequently, both the public and the scientific community have often been misled by widespread dissemination of sensational but weakly founded hypotheses” appears in lines 15-18, where it is shown boldfaced. The passage suggests that which of the following could help remedy the problem described in the final sentence?

A  An article written by a biologist for the general public summarizing current theories about avian and dinosaurian evolution
B  A close examination of available data on avian and dinosaurian evolution
C  A new hypothesis regarding the connection between avian and dinosaurian evolution
13. Select and indicate the best answer from among the five answer choices.

The word “sensational” appears in the final sentence (line 18), where it is shown boldfaced and italicized. In the context in which it appears, “sensational” most nearly means

A dramatic
B false
C excellent
D eminent
E horrifying
Questions 14 and 15 are based on the following passage:
(A sentence is boldfaced in lines 11-12 for reference in answering question 14.)

A portrait type that appeared with relentless frequency in eighteenth-century England is the familiar image of a gentleman poised with one hand inside his partially unbuttoned waistcoat. Standard interpretations of this portrait posture offer observations of correspondence—demonstrating either that it mirrors actual social behavior or that it borrows from classical statuary. Such explanations, however, illuminate neither the source of this curious convention nor the reason for its popularity. It is true that in real life the “hand-in” was a common stance for elite men. Still, there were other ways of comporting the body that did not become winning portrait formulas. And even if the “hand-in” portrait does resemble certain classical statues, what accounts for the adoption of this particular pose?
14. Select and indicate the best answer from among the five answer choices.

The sentence “It is true that in real life the ‘hand-in’ was a common stance for elite men” appears near the middle of the passage (lines 11-12), where it is shown boldfaced. In the context of the passage as a whole, the primary function of that sentence is to
A emphasize the influence of a particular social class on the conventions of eighteenth-century English portraiture
B account for the origin of a particular type of behavior frequently represented in eighteenth-century English portraiture
C acknowledge a historical basis for two competing hypotheses about a particular portrait type
D question the relevance of certain evidence frequently cited in support of an explanation for a particular portrait type
E concede that one explanation for the prevalence of a particular portrait type has a basis in fact
15. For the following question, consider each of the choices separately and select all that apply.

Which of the following might provide an explanation for the popularity of hand-in portraits that would satisfy the author of the passage?

A  An eighteenth-century English etiquette manual discussing the social implications of the “hand-in” stance

B  A comprehensive catalogue of eighteenth-century English portraits that showed what proportion of portraits depicted gentlemen in the “hand-in” stance

C  A passage from an eighteenth-century English novel in which a gentleman considers what stance to adopt when his portrait is painted

Questions 7 to 9 are based on the following passage:

(A phrase is boldfaced in line 16 for reference in answering question 9.)

Historian F. W. Maitland observed that legal documents are the best—indeed, often the only—available evidence about the economic and social history of a given period. Why, then, has it taken so long for historians to focus systematically on the civil (noncriminal) law of early modern (sixteenth-to eighteenth-century) England? Maitland offered one reason: the subject requires researchers to “master an extremely formal system of pleading and procedure.” Yet the complexities that confront those who would study such materials are not wholly different from those recently surmounted by historians of criminal law in England during the same period. Another possible explanation for historians’ neglect of the subject is their widespread assumption that most people in early modern England had little contact with civil law. If that were so, the history of legal matters would be of little relevance to general historical scholarship. But recent research suggests that civil litigation during the period involved artisans, merchants, professionals, shopkeepers, and farmers, and not merely a narrow, propertied, male elite. Moreover, the later sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries saw an extraordinary explosion in civil litigation by both women and men, making this the most litigious era in English history on a per capita basis.
7. Select and indicate the best answer from among the five answer choices.

The passage suggests that the history of criminal law in early modern England differs from the history of civil law during that same period in that the history of criminal law

A️ is of more intellectual interest to historians and their readers
B️ has been studied more thoroughly by historians
C️ is more relevant to general social history
D️ involves the study of a larger proportion of the population
E️ does not require the mastery of an extremely formal system of procedures
8. Select and indicate the best answer from among the five answer choices.

The author of the passage mentions the occupations of those involved in civil litigation in early modern England most likely in order to

A suggest that most historians’ assumptions about the participants in the civil legal system during that period are probably correct

B support the theory that more people participated in the civil legal system than the criminal legal system in England during that period

C counter the claim that legal issues reveal more about a country’s ordinary citizens than about its elite

D illustrate the wide range of people who used the civil legal system in England during that period

E suggest that recent data on people who participated in early modern England’s legal system may not be correct
9. Select and indicate the best answer from among the five answer choices.

The phrase “widespread assumption” appears in the middle of the passage (line 16), where it is shown boldfaced. The author of the passage suggests which of the following about the “widespread assumption”?
Because it is true, the history of civil law is of as much interest to historians focusing on general social history as to those specializing in legal history.

Because it is inaccurate, the history of civil law in early modern England should enrich the general historical scholarship of that period.

It is based on inaccurate data about the propertied male elite of early modern England.

It does not provide a plausible explanation for historians’ failure to study the civil law of early modern England.

It is based on an analogy with criminal law in early modern England.
Question 10 is based on the following passage.

Newspaper Editorial:

Last year, Mayor Stephens established a special law-enforcement task force with the avowed mission of eradicating corruption in city government. The mayor’s handpicked task force has now begun prosecuting a dozen city officials. Since all of these officials were appointed by Mayor Bixby, Mayor Stephens’ predecessor and longtime political foe, it is clear that those being prosecuted have been targeted because of their political affiliations.
10. Select and indicate the best answer from among the five answer choices.

Which of the following, if true, most weakens the editorial’s argument?

A Complaints of official corruption in city government have decreased since the anticorruption task force began operating.

B Former mayor Bixby did not publicly oppose Mayor Stephens’ establishment of the anticorruption task force.

C Almost all of the officials who have served in city government for any length of time are appointees of Mayor Bixby.

D All of the members of the anticorruption task force had other jobs in city government before the task force was formed.

E During the last mayoral election campaign, then–Mayor Bixby hotly disputed the current mayor’s claim that there was widespread corruption in city government.
Directions for questions 11 to 14:

Each of the following questions includes a sentence with a blank indicating that something has been omitted. Following the sentence will be a list of six words or phrases, each of which could be used to complete the sentence. Select the two answer choices that, when used to complete the sentence, fit the meaning of the sentence as a whole and produce completed sentences that are alike in meaning.

F. equivocation
Questions 15 to 17 are based on the following passage:

(A phrase is boldfaced in line 12 for reference in answering question 16. Another phrase is boldfaced in line 26 for reference in answering question 17.)

The decrease in responsiveness that follows continuous stimulation (adaptation) is common to all sensory systems, including olfaction. With continued exposure to chronically present ambient odors, individuals’ perception of odor intensity is greatly reduced. Moreover, these perceptual changes can be profound and durable. It is commonly reported that following extended absences from the odorous environment, reexposure may still fail to elicit perception at the original intensity.

Most research on olfactory adaptation examines relatively transient changes in stimulus detection or perceived intensity—rarely exceeding several hours and often less—but because olfactory adaptation can be produced with relatively short exposures, these durations are sufficient for... investigating many parameters of the phenomenon. However, exposures to odors in natural environments often occur over far longer periods, and the resulting adaptations may differ qualitatively from short-term olfactory adaptation. For example, studies show that even brief periods of odorant stimulation produce transient reductions in receptors in the olfactory epithelium, a process termed “receptor fatigue.” Prolonged odor stimulation, however, could produce more long-lasting reductions in response, possibly involving structures higher in the central nervous system pathway.
15. Select and indicate the best answer from among the five answer choices.

According to the passage, the phenomenon of olfactory adaptation may cause individuals who are reexposed to an odorous environment after an extended absence to

A. experience a heightened perception of the odor
B. perceive the odor as being less intense than it was upon first exposure
C. return to their original level of perception of the odor
D. exhibit a decreased tolerance for the odorous environment
E. experience the phenomenon of adaptation in other sensory systems
16. Select and indicate the best answer from among the five answer choices.

The phrase “research on olfactory adaptation” appears in the middle of the passage (line 12), where it is shown boldfaced. The passage asserts which of the following about the exposures involved in that research?
The exposures are of long enough duration for researchers to investigate many aspects of olfactory adaptation.

The exposures have rarely consisted of reexposures following extended absences from the odorous environment.

The exposures are intended to reproduce the relatively transient olfactory changes typical of exposures to odors in natural environments.

Those exposures of relatively short duration are often insufficient to produce the phenomenon of receptor fatigue in study subjects.

Those exposures lasting several hours produce reductions in receptors in the olfactory epithelium that are similar to the reductions caused by prolonged odor stimulation.
17. Select and indicate the best answer from among the five answer choices.

The phrase “receptor fatigue” appears near the end of the passage (line 26), where it is shown boldfaced. The author of the passage discusses “receptor fatigue” primarily in order to
A explain the physiological process through which long-lasting reductions in response are thought to be produced
B provide an example of a process that subjects would probably not experience during a prolonged period of odorant stimulation
C help illustrate how the information gathered from most olfactory research may not be sufficient to describe the effects of extended exposures to odors
D show how studies of short-term olfactory adaptation have only accounted for the reductions in response that follow relatively brief absences from an odorous environment
E qualify a statement about the severity and duration of the perceptual changes caused by exposure to chronically present ambient odors
Questions 18 and 19 are based on the following passage:

(A phrase is boldfaced in line 3 for reference in answering question 18. A word is boldfaced in line 5 for reference in answering question 19.)

Among academics involved in the study of Northern Renaissance prints (reproducible graphic artworks), an orthodox position can be said to have emerged. This position regards Renaissance prints as passive representations of their time—documents that reliably record contemporary events, opinions, and beliefs—and therefore as an important means of accessing the popular contemporary consciousness. In contrast, pioneering studies such as those by Scribner and Moxey take a strikingly different approach, according to which Northern Renaissance prints were purposeful, active, and important shaping forces in the communities that produced them. Scribner, for example, contends that religious and political prints of the German Reformation (ca. 1517–1555) functioned as popular... propaganda: tools in a vigorous campaign aimed at altering people’s behavior, attitudes, and beliefs.

18. For the following question, consider each of the choices separately and select all that apply.

The phrase “orthodox position” appears in the first sentence of the passage (line 3), where it is shown boldfaced. The passage suggests that an adherent to the “orthodox position” would agree with which of the following statements?

A  Northern Renaissance prints should be regarded as passive representations of their time.

B  Northern Renaissance prints were part of a campaign aimed at altering contemporary thinking.

C  Northern Renaissance prints provide reliable records of contemporary events, opinions, and beliefs.
19. Select and indicate the best answer from among the five answer choices.

The word “passive” appears in the second sentence of the passage (line 5), where it is shown boldfaced. Replacement of the word “passive” with which of the following words results in the least change in meaning for the passage?

A. disinterested
B. submissive
C. flaccid
D. supine
E. unreceptive

Question 20 is based on the following passage:

Recently an unusually high number of dolphins have been found dead of infectious diseases, and most of these had abnormally high tissue concentrations of certain compounds that, even in low concentrations, reduce dolphins’ resistance to infection. The only source of these compounds in the dolphins’ environment is boat paint. Therefore, since dolphins rid their bodies of the compounds rapidly once exposure ceases, their mortality rate should decline rapidly if such boat paints are banned.
20. Select and indicate the best answer from among the five answer choices.

Which of the following, if true, most strengthens the argument?

A  The levels of the compounds typically used in boat paints today are lower than they were in boat paints manufactured a decade ago.

B  In high concentrations, the compounds are toxic to many types of marine animals.

C  The compounds break down into harmless substances after a few months of exposure to water or air.

D  High tissue levels of the compounds have recently been found in some marine animals, but there is no record of any of those animals dying in unusually large numbers recently.

E  The compounds do not leach out of the boat paint if the paint is applied exactly in accordance with the manufacturer’s directions.
This is the end of Section 3. In an actual test, once you complete a section you may not return to it.
